

Health Tips for seniors

Are you getting enough fluids?

Facts

- Your body is approximately 50% water.
- Thirst is not a good measure of dehydration in seniors.
- Caffeine containing products like coffee, tea, or sodas & alcoholic beverages can dehydrate you.

Signs & symptoms of dehydration

- Loss of appetite
- Increased effort for physical work and/or a lack of energy
- Headache, nausea, and/or dizziness
- Difficulty in concentrating and/or increased confusion
- Hot skin
- Tingling of arms, hands, and/or feet
- Speech difficulty and/or dry tongue
- Dry mucous membranes in nose & mouth
- Upper body muscle weakness and/or muscle spasms
- Sunken appearance of the eyes in their sockets

Recommendations

- At least 6.5 cups of fluid every day (1,500 ml / day)

Note If you have congestive heart failure (CHF) or kidney disease, please consult your physician for your needs.
